TAFT ENDS BUCKEYE TRIP

President Taft Delivers Last Speech at Akron.

Wears Overcoat at Banquet

Members of Chamber of Commerce That Republican Party, If Retained in Power, Will Complete Revision of Tariff Along Scientific Lines—Carries Many Pledges of Support Back to Washington. Talks to Constitutional Delegates.

Akron, O., Feb. 1.—After a three days' trip to his home state, President Taft left here for Washington in contented state of mind as to the political outlook in Ohio. During the last few days Mr. Taft has met many of his political leaders in Cleveland, Columbus and this city, and they pledged him their hearty support in the coming presidential campaign. The president is confident that his state will give a large Republican majority next fall in spite of the insurgent movement in the northern part of the state.

Cardinal O'Connell Robed As a Prince of the Church

WITH the return of Cardinal O'Connell, joyously received by the Catholics of the archdiocese of Boston, the United States has for the first time within its borders three cardinals of its own. By a singular appropriateness San Clemente, the church in Rome to which Cardinal O'Connell has been assigned and which gives him his title as cardinal priest, was founded nearly 300 years ago in charge of the Irish Dominicans and so is a fitting place for him. Its underground oratory dates back to the time of St. Peter in the Roman persecution. In the course of the address on the occasion of taking over the church the cardinal said, "St. Peter, the prince of the apostles, and St. Paul, the apostle of the gentiles, to whom the Romans owe their vocation to the faith, stood in this very place and offered up the holy sacrifice."

Hanna Opens Purse

Will Be Financial Backer of Roosevelt Boom in Ohio.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 1.—Dan R. Hanna, multimillionaire son of the late Senator M. A. Hanna, is to be adviser and financial backer of the campaign to secure a Roosevelt delegation from Ohio to the Republican national convention. Cleveland headquarters for the Roosevelt organization are to be opened within a few days. Attorney John J. Sullivan, district attorney under President Roosevelt, is slated to push the organization of the Twentieth district for Roosevelt.

Marion Jurist Would Give Counties, Townships and Municipalities the Right to Vote on Question Same as Under Provisions of Rose Law, Extending Time Limit to Five Years. Bowdle Makes Eloquent Appeal For Abolition of Divorce.

Columbus, O., Feb. 1.—By an almost unanimous vote the constitutional convention declared that it would not waste any time on legislative questions, touch the question of justices of the peace, change the preamble to the constitution, or change the criminal provisions of the constitution so as to permit the placing of a man in jeopardy twice. It did this by adopting the report of the judiciary committee which recommended the killing of 22 proposals—among them five relating to the jury system, one providing for a tribunal of honor to impeach judges and hear cases in contempt of court, another to compel legislators to file statements to constituents as to their official conduct.

"If we are to have polygamy, let us have it out in the open," said Delegate Bowdle of Hamilton, in arguing his anti-divorce proposal before the judiciary committee. "The divorce laws of today are an invitation to marital degeneracy." He will have a further hearing on the subject.

A proposal by Stewart of Meigs would place $100,000,000 of county, city and township bonds issued prior to the constitutional amendment Jan. 1, 1906, back on the tax duplicate.

Norris Has License Plank.

Judge Norris of Marion introduced a proposal that any county, township, municipality or residence district may vote on the question of licensing saloons for periods of five years. He thinks his plan would drive bootleggers out of business. His proposal would supersede the present Rose county local option law as to increasing the time limit between elections from three to five years.

Another proposal by Reed of Summit would extend the term of governor to four years.

It is just possible there will be a contest today over inviting Theodore Roosevelt to address the convention. Delegate Eby of Preble, a Democrat, introduced the resolution.

PRESENT THEIR CASE

Women Given Hearing on Equal Suffrage Proposition.

Columbus, O., Feb. 1.—Culminating in a hearing before the constitutional convention and in a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, the Equal Suffrage league of Ohio opened its formal campaign to secure a constitutional provision allowing women to vote on all questions in this state.

Katherine Waugh McCulloch, attorney of Chicago, addressed the meeting. Miss Edith Weld Peck, also an attorney, of Cincinnati, was one of the speakers. H. Anna Quinby, a Columbus attorney, put the question on a financial basis and adduced statistics showing that women pay enormous amounts of taxes.

League Favors LaFollette.

Dayton, O., Feb. 1.—The Montgomery County Progressive Republican league, already 200 strong, met today to start a campaign for 1,000 members in 30 days. It is for an anti-Taft Ohio delegation to the national convention. Personally the members are largely for LaFollette.

BIG STRIKE IS ENDED AND TEXTILE WORKERS RETURN TO THEIR WORK

Presence of Soldiers Awes Lawrence Strikers.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 1.—Encouraged by the presence of a large force of militiamen, more operatives reported for work in the textile mills than on any day since the strike of 20,000 employees began nearly three weeks ago.

The strikers, however, deny any desertions from their ranks. At a general strike meeting representatives of one nationality after another reported their people as standing fast. Most of those who are working are said to be French-Canadian and other English-speaking operatives.

It was one of the quietest days since the inception of the strike. The arraignment in court of Strike Leader Joseph J. Ettor and his lieutenant, Arturo Giovannitti, who are charged with being accessories to the murder of Anna Lopozzo, provoked no trouble, although it had been feared a demonstration might result. After pleading not guilty and being held without bail, the two were taken to the Essex county house of correction to await a hearing on Feb. 9.

REPUDIATES BILLY SUNDAY.

Columbus, O., Feb. 1.—Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden made vigorous protest against the use of his name in connection with an invitation to Rev. Billy Sunday, who is to conduct a revival here next January. He says he hasn't changed his opinion and won't close his church during the revival, as Rev. Sunday demands.

Evade The Real Issue

License and No-License Advocates Appear Before Committee.

Columbus, O., Feb. 1.—License again was the subject of a rather spectacular hearing before the liquor traffic committee of the constitutional convention.

Appearing for no-license advocates were Former Mayor James A. Rice of Canton, Attorney L. D. Lilley of Columbus and D. H. Rhoades of Toledo. The license people were represented by Former Postmaster and Editor C. B. McCoy of Coshocton, Former Mayor Bell of Zanesville, Dr. Clinch of New Philadelphia, Attorney L. C. Russell of Newark and W. R. Ware of Upper Sandusky.

Members of the committee complained that the arguments were on the merits and demerits of the saloon and not on the question whether or not the convention shall submit a license clause to the voters. Both wets and dries in the main adopted the same tactics in argument.

Church Thief Caught.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 1.—An electrical burglar alarm saved the contribution box in the chapel of St. John's cathedral here from being robbed. When the box was tampered with a bell rang in Father O'Reilly's office and several priests ran out in time to catch a man giving his name as Robert J. Wilson, 35, of Los Angeles.

ALLISON M'FARLAND

Found Guilty of Murdering His Wife at Newark, N. J.

McFarland Is Held Guilty

Jury Convicts Newark (N. J.) Man of Poisoning Wife.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 1.—After a deliberation of more than 12 hours, the jury in the case of Allison McFarland returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. They reported that they had reached a conclusion, and word was sent to Chief Justice Gummere at his home.

Allison M. McFarland was found guilty of causing the death of his wife Evelyn, who drank cyanide of potassium on the night of Oct. 17. McFarland admitted that he had brought the poison to the house and had placed it in a bromide bottle. The jury found that he did so with intent to cause her death. The prosecution claimed that McFarland's infatuation for a Philadelphia woman named in the case as Florence Bromley, furnished the motive.

Sleeps With Swine.

Massillon, O., Feb. 1.—Hearing his pigs squealing, Henry Foltz investigated and found a scantily clad, half-frozen man had routed the pigs from their bed and was lying there himself. Foltz carried the stranger to the farmhouse, where he was fed and clad. Then the farmer discovered that the man was Adolph Uverwilk, an escaped patient from the Massillon asylum.

Sleuth Burns Grows Peevish

Burns Loses Temper as Witness in Lorimer Probe.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The appearance of Detective William J. Burns on the stand in the Lorimer hearing before the senate investigators was the signal for a sharp tilt between Burns and Attorney Hanecy, who is defending Lorimer.

Burns objected to the line of cross-examination conducted by Hanecy and at one point remarked: "I think my reputation compares with yours and is even better; I'll hand you that every time," shouted Burns in reply to one of Mr. Hanecy's remarks. Peace was restored by Chairman Millingham.

Rebellion Headed by Zapata Becomes Menacing.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 1.—Ciudad Juarez is again in the hands of the rebels in opposition to the existing government. Ten months ago Madero and his command took the town from the Diaz soldiers. Now the men who helped Madero take the town turned against him and have taken possession in the name of Emiliano Zapata, who is leading the only rebellion of importance against Madero.

The mutineers imprisoned their colonel, Augustin Estrada, close friend of Madero and of General Pascual Orozco, and also locked Augustin Gallo, chief of police, in the jail. This was their first act. Their next act was to declare Captain Martinez their leader, to seize all the arms and ammunition in Juarez and to send men south to blow up the railroad tracks between them and Chihuahua and Mexico City. Several stores were broken open by the mutineers and every cartridge, rifle and pistol in sight was taken.

FILE ANSWER IN STEEL TRUST

Trust Denies That It Has Ever Done Wrong.

IS FOREIGN TRADE BOOSTER

Papers Filed at Trenton, N. J., Recite History of United States Steel Corporation, Declaring That Organization Is Necessary to Compete With Manufacturers Abroad and That It Has Not Resulted in Stifling of Competition or Effected Monopoly.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 1.—In the federal district court here the United States Steel corporation and its various subsidiary companies filed an answer to the petition filed by the government under the anti-trust act.

The following individuals joined in the answer: J. Pierpont Morgan, Elbert H. Gary, Charles M. Schwab, Charles Steele, Henry C. Frick, James Gayley, William H. Moore, James H. Moore, Percival Roberts, Jr., Daniel G. Reid, Norman B. Ream, George W. Perkins and Peter A. B. Widener.

The answer defends the organization of the subsidiary companies, denies that they were formed in violation of the anti-trust act, claims that they were a normal and necessary development of the times, and insists that instead of restraining trade or commerce, they have developed and increased the same.

How Idea Was Evolved.

It is stated in the answer that the United States Steel corporation has its inception in the minds of the officers and directors of the Federal Steel company, who, when they sought to purchase finishing mills in order to compete for business in the eastern part of the United States and in many foreign countries, learned that the principal owners of the Carnegie company were desirous of selling their business. Later they learned that the properties of the American Steel and Wire company, the American Tin Plate company, the American Steel Hoop company, the American Sheet Steel company and the National Tube company were also on the market. They then opened

Install Officers

The Eagles' hall was filled with visitors and members of the order Wednesday evening to witness the beautiful installation ceremonies of the Ladies of the Maccabees.

Deputy Great Commander Mrs. Myra Davison acted as installing officer and was ably assisted by Mrs. Ida Gillespie as lady of ceremonies, and the splendid Guard team under the direction of Miss Bertha McKitt-trick, the efficient captain. The guards and officers attired in white made a very pretty picture as they gave the different figures in the drill work.

At the close of the installation Deputy Great Commander Davison gave a short talk on the merits and financial standing of the order. There followed a short musical program composed of songs and instrumental music. Those taking part were Miss Emma Wilson, Miss Sylvia Snider, Miss Lillian English, who furnished the instrumental music. Ruth Snider sang in her sweet baby voice a pretty love song. Little Thelma Markley sang a comic song in a splendid manner. Light refreshments were served, after which a jolly hour was spent in dancing and pleasant conversation.

CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER.

R. H. Harrop.

Above is shown a splendid likeness of Mr. R. H. Harrop, one of the best known citizens of this city, who has acceded to the wishes of a number of admiring friends and entered the contest for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner, subject to the May primary.

Mr. Harrop is at present a member of the Board of County Infirmary Directors, which office was abolished by the legislature and will be discontinued at the close of the terms of the present incumbents, December 31, 1912. After that date the duties now occupying the attention of the Infirmary Directors will be assumed by the Board of County Commissioners, to which office Mr. Harrop aspires.

The subject of this sketch is an old soldier, having served his country in the Civil war with credit. At the battle of Kennesaw Mountain he was wounded and lost his left arm. Following the war Mr. Harrop returned to this county and devoted his time to farming and school teaching until his election to the office of Infirmary Director. In the present contest for the Republican nomination for commissioner, Mr. Harrop has the support of a good following first, last and all the time, and will make a determined effort to reach the goal.

ENOUGH OF BUCKSKIN

NEW HARNESS NICK DEMPSEY GOT WAS OF LEATHER.

Thereby Hangs a Good Story of the West—How the Weather Helped Sam Muldrow to Win Almost Hopeless Bet.

"Nick Dempsey was for a certainty the most talented teamster that ever swung the ribbons over a pair of horses," said the cab driver who had come in out of the west to take a position on the box of a metropolitan taxi whizzer. "He always had the best team that he could combine, and the care he took of them was a lesson to the S. P. C. A. And his harness! Well, Nick laid himself out on them and they looked like circus fix'n's. But pride goeth before a fall and Nick got his, bimby. Somebody told him that buckskin made the finest harness in the world, and he didn't rest till he got a set of buckskin harness. He made it himself, to be sure it was just right, and it was about the gayest thing that ever got up to the foothills, not excepting Sadie McGinniss' wedding togs, and they was some.

"Nick hadn't more than got his new harness tried out till Sam Muldrow, that drove a mule team, challenged him for a trip to the railroad and back, thirty miles each way, and no turnpike, neither. Nick fairly snorted at Sam, but Sam shook a fifty-dollar bill under his snorter and told him that was what was what, and Sam took it at a gulp, he was that willing. We got all our goods by team and they was going back and forth every two or three times a week, but nobody ever thought of making a speed record till Sam put it up to Nick and his new harness.

"They got away all right and the whole road was out to see them as they trekked along. It was the biggest thing we'd ever pulled off and betting was frequent all around, odds on Nick about forty-seven to one. People said Sam was a fool, but he said he was trusting to Providence and the weather. It did look like rain, and mules is hard to beat in the mud, but it was a mighty long shot for Sam and the few backers he had. They pulled in at the railroad about even and going easy, both of them taking care of their critters for the haul home next day with a load.

"They was to leave next morning at seven, and no jockeying on the start. That night it rained, cleared off and turned colder, just right for traveling. There wasn't anything at the railroad but a station agent's house and a shed alongside of the house, and the shed wasn't any shelter to brag on. When Sam got to it at about six next morning he found Nick there cussing forty ways for the Sabbath and repeat. He was slaming that fancy buckskin harness all over the ground and swearing every time it hit, and every time it hit it made a noise like cracking a chicken coop.

"The rain during the night had blown in on it, and when it dried it was harder than a board and wouldn't fit a hoss any more than an iron cage would. Prompt at seven Sam pulled out for home, leaving Nick in the shed still cussing and banging his harness. Nick got back that night about four hours after Sam had gone to bed, and the strings and ropes and wires and pieces of gaiters and strips of boot-lugs and sections of buckskin that made up his harness was a sight to see. And Sam Muldrow was a gentleman! He let Nick keep $25 of the bet to buy new harness with, and Nick didn't get no buckskin harness with it, neither, mind that now."

Beavers for National Parks.

Tourists in the Yellowstone National park have shown so much interest in the beavers that inhabit the streams that the department of the interior is considering the advisability of placing colonies of the animals in some of the other national parks.

The beaver has been one of the most potent factors in the exploration of the Rocky mountain region because the early trappers were generally searching for beaver when they first penetrated the fastnesses of the mountains. The zigzag dams constructed by these busy animals are familiar sights in the Yellowstone National park. The beaver seems to be particularly adapted to the Platte, the Yosemite and Mount Rainier National parks.

Made Them Smile.

There is a good story of a Divinity professor who had an estate in Scotland, and had been invited to preside at the baptism of the last-arrived infant in the already-crowded house of a minister.

The guest gave out for congressional singing a paraphrase much favored on such occasions: "Let us," said he, "sing from the fifth paraphrase, beginning at the second verse: 'As sparks in close succession rise.'"

To his constitution the congregation giggled. Afterwards, asking the "minister's man" what had been wrong, that functionary replied: "Ye see, professor, the minister's name is Sparks, and yonder is his tenth bairn!"

Groundhog Day

Friday, February 2nd is "ground hog" day and, according to tradition if Mr. Groundhog comes forth from his winter quarters and beholds his shadow, he returns for another six weeks during which time winter weather prevails again. First Accident In Removing Ruins

The first accident to occur since the gang of workmen have been engaged in removing the fire ruins, took place Wednesday evening about 3:30 when Walter Hays had the end of his left thumb crushed off by a heavy steel plate catching the thumb and crushing it against a brick wall. Hays was assisting in the removal of a heavy boiler plate, when the plate slipped from the hands of his fellow workmen and caught his thumb at the first joint. Dr. L. L. Brock dressed the injury.

Wealthy Farmer Suicides In Cincinnati Sanitarium

C. W. Van Pelt, a wealthy farmer living near Leesburg, well-known in Fayette county, ended his life in a bathroom at the Cincinnati Sanitarium Wednesday, by drinking aqua ammonia which he seized while the attendants were absent for a moment.

Shortly after his admittance he made an attempt to strangle himself with a bed sheet, but was prevented by a nurse. About two weeks ago he made an attempt to end his life by dashing his head against a wall. He sustained a bad scalp wound and several days after this had been sewed up by the physicians he tried to tear the wound open while eating a meal.

He was finally kept shackled except at meal time, but frequently remarked to his guard: "I'll do away with myself and you can't prevent it." Tuesday he tried to force his head through the iron bars on the window of his room and inflicted further injuries. Wednesday, after lunch he rushed into the bathroom, where he found a bottle of ammonia. When the nurse heard a disturbance he entered the room and found Van Pelt with the neck of the ammonia bottle to his mouth. He fell unconscious a few minutes later and died shortly after several physicians reached him.

Van Pelt was 52 years of age. He leaves a widow and two children, one 13, the other 14 years of age. The body was shipped to Leesburg for burial.

WILL ASSIST HIS FATHER IN MANAGEMENT OF HOTEL

PLAN TO REOPEN SULPHUR LICK

Former Residents, Curtis Baker and Son, J. A. Baker, Said to Be Making Plans for Operating Old Hotel at Sulphur Lick Springs, Near New Maple Grove Hotel.

According to the Ironton Register, Mr. Curtis Baker and his son, J. A. Baker, both former well known residents of Fayette county, the former being owner of the Sulphur Lick Springs Hotel which has been under lease for several years, will take charge of the hotel in the near future.

The Register says in part: "After 15 years of railroad experience, 11 years with the Lake Erie and Western railroad at points in Indiana and four years with the N. & W., two of which were spent in the Columbus office and two years of service at Ironton as cashier, Mr. J. A. Baker has resigned his position effective Feb. 15th and will in the future be associated with his father, Curtis Baker in managing Sulphur Lick Springs Hotel, eight miles west of Chillicothe. This spring and hotel is the only noted summer resort in southern Ohio.

"Mr. Baker while in this city has made many friends and acquaintances who will be sorry to hear of his decision to leave the city. Mr. Baker's connection with the N. & W. has been a means of profit to that company, who cannot afford to lose many such valuable employees.

"That Mr. Baker would resign was rumored over the city some time before but it was not used until the present time.

"The Register extends with the many friends of Mr. Baker in wishing him a prosperous business career in his new vocation.

"Just who the successor in this responsible position at the freight office will be, has not yet been decided."

Village Smithy Kicked by Mule

Martin Armstrong, the village blacksmith at Parrotts Station, five miles north of this city on the D. T. & L., is confined to his home with a badly broken leg, the result of a mule kicking him Tuesday evening.

Mr. Armstrong was shoeing a team of mules for Mr. Roy Hegler, and had almost finished the work when one of the mules suddenly kicked him, the steel-shod hoof striking Mr. Armstrong's left leg below the knee fracturing one bone and dislocating the ankle.

It is an unusually bad injury, and the victim will probably be crippled for life. Armstrong is widely known throughout Fayette county, and of recent years has been employed at Madison Mills, moving from that place a year ago.

Install Officers

The Eagles' hall was filled with visitors and members of the order Wednesday evening to witness the beautiful installation ceremonies of the Ladies of the Maccabees.

Deputy Great Commander Mrs. Myra Davison acted as installing officer and was ably assisted by Mrs. Ida Gillespie as lady of ceremonies, and the splendid Guard team under the direction of Miss Bertha McKittick, the efficient captain. The guards and officers attired in white made a very pretty picture as they gave the different figures in the drill work.

At the close of the installation Deputy Great Commander Davison gave a short talk on the merits and financial standing of the order. There followed a short musical program composed of songs and instrumental music. Those taking part were Miss Emma Wilson, Miss Sylvia Snider, Miss Lillian English, who furnished the instrumental music. Ruth Snider sang in her sweet baby voice a pretty love song. Little Thelma Markley sang a comic song in a splendid manner. Light refreshments were served, after which a jolly hour was spent in dancing and pleasant conversation.

CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER.

R. H. Harrop.

Above is shown a splendid likeness of Mr. R. H. Harrop, one of the best known citizens of this city, who has acceded to the wishes of a number of admiring friends and entered the contest for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner, subject to the May primary.

Mr. Harrop is at present a member of the Board of County Infirmary Directors, which office was abolished by the legislature and will be discontinued at the close of the terms of the present incumbents, December 31, 1912. After that date the duties now occupying the attention of the Infirmary Directors will be assumed by the Board of County Commissioners, to which office Mr. Harrop aspires.

The subject of this sketch is an old soldier, having served his country in the Civil war with credit. At the battle of Kenesaw Mountain he was wounded and lost his left arm. Following the war Mr. Harrop returned to this county and devoted his time to farming and school teaching until his election to the office of Infirmary Director. In the present contest for the Republican nomination for commissioner, Mr. Harrop has the support of a good following first, last and all the time, and will make a determined effort to reach the goal.

"Nick Dempsey was for a certainty the most talented teamster that ever swung the ribbons over a pair of horses," said the cab driver who had come in out of the west to take a position on the box of a metropolitan taxi-whizzer. "He always had the best team that he could combine, and the care he took of them was a lesson to the S. P. C. A. And his harness! Well, Nick laid himself out on them and they looked like circus flairs. But pride goeth before a fall and Nick got his, bimeby. He made it himself, to be sure it was just right, and it was about the gayest thing that ever got up to the foothills, not excepting Sadie McGinniss' wedding toga, and they was some.

"Nick hadn't more than got his new harness tried out till Sam Muldrow, that drove a mule team, challenged him for a trip to the railroad and back, thirty miles each way, and no turnpike, neither. Nick fairly snorted at Sam, but Sam shook a fifty-dollar bill under his snorter and told him that was what was what, and Sam took it at a gulp, he was that willing. We got all our goods by team and they was going back and forth every two or three times a week, but nobody ever thought of making a speed record till Sam put it up to Nick and his new harness.

"They got away all right and the whole road was out to see them as they trekked along. It was the biggest thing we'd ever pulled off and betting was frequent all around, odds on Nick about forty-seven to one. People said Sam was a fool, but he said he was trusting to Providence and the weather. It did look like rain, and mules is hard to beat in the mud, but it was a mighty long shot for Sam and the few backers he had. They pulled in at the railroad about even and going easy, both of them taking care of their critters for the haul home next day with a load.

"They was to leave next morning at seven, and no jockeying on the start. That night it rained, cleared off and turned colder, just right for traveling. There wasn't anything at the railroad but a station agent's house and a shed alongside of the house, and the shed wasn't any shelter to brag on. When Sam got to it at about six next morning he found Nick there cussing forty ways for the Sabbath and repeat. He was alaming that fancy buckskin harness all over the ground and swearing every time it hit, and every time it hit it made a noise like cracking a chicken coop.

"The rain during the night had blowed in on it, and when it dried it was harder than a board and wouldn't fit a boss any more than an iron cage would. Prompt at seven Sam pulled out for home, leaving Nick in the shed still cussing and banging his harness. Nick got back that night about four hours after Sam had gone to bed, and the strings and ropes and wires and pieces of galuses and strips of boot-legs and sections of buckskin that made up his harness was a sight to see. And Sam Muldrow was a gentleman! He let Nick keep $25 of the bet to buy new harness with, and Nick didn't get no buckskin harness with it, neither, mind that now."

DAYTON WILL HAVE

AUTOMOBILE SHOW.

More than thirty makes of automobiles will be on exhibition at the big auto show to be held in Dayton the week beginning Monday, Feb. 12. Included in these are all the well known cars of the country, namely, Cadillac, Hup, Yates, Flanders, Mitchell, Pierce Arrow, Columbus Electric, Overland, Locomobile, Hudson, Mormon, Empire, Paige Detroit, Abbott Detroit, Chalmers-Detroit, Buick, Peerless, Baker Electric, Reo, Premier, Marathon, E. M. F., Sanders, Ford, Hupmobile, National, Marion, American, Republic, Pathfinder, Parry, Speedwell, Winton and Stoddard-Dayton.

General Manager Redell and the members of the committees from the Dayton Automobile club and the Auto Dealers' Association are endeavoring to make this show one of the best in Ohio and one which will compare most favorably with the exhibits being held in the larger cities of the country. As can be seen from the foregoing list of entries, it is evident that even the large auditorium of Memorial Hall is going to be crowded with motor cars and in addition many applications for floor space has been received from the dealers in motorcycles and accessories.

In a few days work will be begun on the decorating of the big hall, and when the doors are thrown open to the public on the night of Lincoln's birthday, the interior of Memorial Hall will present a brilliant aspect. No expense is being spared in looking after all details, and special efforts are being made to have each exhibit in charge of capable salesmen who will make every effort to enlighten all visitors.

Further Developments In Depot Robbery Case

Trial in Progress Before Mayor Smith This Afternoon and Damaging Evidence is Introduced--Keg of Beer Tapped and Contents Consumed in Depot During Night of Theft.

The police have been busy since Wednesday morning securing evidence in the robbery which took place at the D. T. & I. depot some time Tuesday night, and as a result a few of the stolen articles have been unearthed and held as evidence against one of the young men who were thrown in jail.

It has also come to light that the boys tapped a keg of beer in the freight room, and after drinking the contents, filled it up with water, according to the claims made by the man to whom the beer was consigned. Some of the boys arrested do not deny drinking the beer, but deny that they purloined the articles from the sample cases.

At two o'clock this afternoon the young men were tried before Mayor Smith, and at the time of going to press the trial was still in progress.

A number of witnesses testified in the case, principal among whom were Chas. Reynolds, employed as the B. & O. and Wes McCann. McCann testified that Thurman Palmer gave him a purse and two match safes, which are part of the stolen articles. He said Palmer told him not to say anything about the articles.

Reynolds testified that Ed Burnett (who was the first man tried) had borrowed a bucket at the B. & O. and returned it at 2:30 to 3:00 a. m. Wednesday morning, showing him a card case at the time.

Burnett at first denied seeing Reynolds during Tuesday night, but later admitted that he gave him the bucket. Burnett further testified that he went home at 12:30 to 1:00 o'clock, and admitted having been at the depot with the other boys arrested. Said he heard Palmer say he found pocketbook and safes in ladies' waiting room.

While examining Patrolman Cogswell, Mayor Smith asked about certain overcoats, whiskey and other things being stolen, and if he had heard who was suspected of robbing the Bending pool room. No names were mentioned.

Hettesheimer is agent for the "Howard watch."

Changes of the most radical nature are in store for the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad as a result of a series of meetings between the Knickerbocker Trust Company and others in New York. Plans for reorganization have been completed, and great reductions have been made in the company's capital for bond and stock issues aggregating $38,800,000, which have been scaled down to about $20,000,000. The stock issues of $25,000,000 have been cut in half and a greater part of the funded indebtedness wiped out.

A special dispatch from New York further mentions the deal as follows: The General Lien Bondholders' committee, represented by Mr. Bannard as chairman and the Consolidated Bondholders' Committee, of which the chairman is Frances Henderson, vice president of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, worked out the reorganization which will be officially announced in a few days, or as soon as counsel can put it in proper form. Several interests still have to be conferred with, but it is expected that their consent will be obtained.

A new prior lien mortgage will be made and short term prior lien five per cent bonds to the amount of $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 will be issued from time to time, as need for future requirements, new equipment and betterments. An issue of new adjustment income bonds is to be authorized in the amount of $6,000,000 to $7,000,000. New preferred and common stock issues will be authorized.

The General Lien's Bondholders' Committee, representing $4,253,000 bonds, has agreed to subordinate its lien by the assumption of a smaller lot of the junior adjustment income securities to represent their bonds.

Consolidated mortgage bondholders, whose holdings amount to $2,776,400, will also accept junior liens, and provide new funds by an assessment upon the bonds. The Ohio Southern bonds, represented by a committee headed by James N. Wallace, will be left undisturbed.

Two prominent banking houses, it is understood, have agreed to underwrite a block of the new prior lien bonds.

The plan also provides for means for building a cut-off of 22 miles in order to shorten the line and avoid heavy grades on the Ohio Southern division of the road.

Such new funds as will be required therefor, will be provided by the sale of new bonds taken by the consolidated mortgage bondholders, while the general lien bondholders receive a smaller amount of income bonds without having to put up any money. The allotments of income bonds will probably include shares of preferred and common stocks.

The D. T. & I. has been in the hands of receivers since 1908, when interest on the consolidated mortgage bonds was defaulted. The scaling down of the capitalization has been as radical as anything seen in Wall street for many years but the bankers concerned in the negotiations say the step was necessary and that the security holders of the road may rest satisfied that the railroad property can now be extricated from the unfortunate conditions under which it has been operated for the last four years.

"It was a laundry process," said one of the bankers concerned. "We simply had to put the company through the wringer and squeeze the water out."

BURKE SHIPS MONUMENT ACROSS THE COUNTRY.

P. J. Burke, Jr., the monument dealer on East St., recently shipped a monument to Gray, Maine, which was purchased by Mr. Charles M. Stimson, of Los Angeles, Cal., during his visit here last summer.

Mr. Stimson dropped into the shop to pay a friendly call to Mr. Burke's father, they being next-door business neighbors thirty-five years ago, when Mr. Stimson was engaged in the wholesale grocery business in this city. While in the shop Mr. Stimson saw a monument that appealed to him very much. This monument being sold he placed an order for a duplicate of it.

The monument is an all polished design, made from Silver Gray Cherokee marble, which is quarried at Nelson, Georgia, all the work being done at the shop here. This monument will be set in the cemetery at Gray, Maine, for one of Mr. Stimson's relatives.

RAILROAD WRECKS.

The tragic deaths of former president, J. T. Harahan, of the Illinois Central, and three other high railroad officials, at Kilmory, Ill., again illustrates the small regard American railroads have for human lives, compared to other nations. The number of passengers killed in this country in 1908 was 301; in 1909 the number was 253, and in 1910 the number rose to 421. These figures are for passengers alone, and do not include trainmen and other employees, among whom the fatalities annually reach into the thousands.

Against the slaughter of American railroad passengers the British railroads, in 1910 killed only 23 passengers, a number greatly in excess of the average. In 1911 not a single passenger was killed in a wreck in England.

That these wholesale deaths are not necessary in this country is proven by the fact that one of the big English roads, for the last two years has used nothing but solid steel coaches, during which time not a single passenger has been killed on that road.

FEDERAL REPORT ON INDUSTRIAL LEAD POISONING

A bulletin containing three articles devoted to the subject of industrial lead poisoning has just been issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor. The first by Sir Thomas Oliver, is on industrial lead poisoning in Europe; the second, by Dr. Alice Hamilton, on the white-lead industry in the United States, and the third, by Mr. John B. Andrews, on death from industrial lead poisoning in New York, the two articles last mentioned being the first of a series of studies on this subject which the Department of Commerce and Labor propose to make.

The report of Oliver on lead poisoning in Great Britain, where compulsory notification of all cases is required, shows that in the past ten years there has been a reduction of 50 per cent. in the number of cases of lead poisoning, chiefly in the dusty trades which are carried on indoors, such as white-lead works, potteries, litho-transfers and paint factories. Lead smelting and the painters' trades still seem to be very productive of lead poisoning in Great Britain, and as in the United States, the great danger to the painter seems to be the process of sandpapering which forces him to breathe white-lead dust.

The report of the white-lead industry in the United States is admittedly incomplete owing to the lack of compulsory notification. Three hundred and eighty-eight cases were found to have occurred between Jan. 1, 1910, and May 1, 1911. As 1,600 men are employed in the trade, this would mean about one case in every four men employed, which is in appalling contrast to Oliver's figures. Owing to the shifting character of labor in this industry these figures are probably too low.

Andrews' analysis of sixty cases of lead poisoning in New York state during 1909 and 1910 shows that forty-five subjects handled paint, four were printers, three smelters, three white-lead workers two storage battery makers and one each employed in tinning, lead-pipe making and rubber works. The Bureau of Labor has undertaken a difficult task in attempting to ascertain the extent of industrial plumbism in our lead trades, and it deserves the hearty cooperation of the public.

THE SEA OF PEACE.

I stand above the white-rimmed sea;
Its deeps are mine, its mirrored height;
Mine its low plaint of mystery;
All mine its glee-song of delight.

Mine its strong soul; its body mine;
I have me in its kind embrace;
In dreams upon its buoyant brine
It gives me back a cherished face.

Mayhap it helps me understand
The language of infinity,
The secret of the shifting sand,
The testimony of the sea.

I am above all circumstance,
I am beyond all power of hurt;
No more I shrink from sorrow's lance,
So with all strength I am begirt.

I've tasted every bitter cup;
Earth's bulwarks all are proven frail;
Yet sweetened now is life's low cup,
All hallowed: 'tis my holy grail.

Above its wrecks of ships and men
The placid ocean shows no scars;
Above my deeps where storms have been
My tranquil soul reflects the stars.

Taft Ends His Buckeye Tour

Mr. Taft closed his present trip with a speech before the members of the Akron chamber of commerce, in which he defended the record of the Republican party on the tariff question and contended that the tariff schedules should be revised only on the basis of the data obtained by a nonpartisan tariff board after a complete and searching inquiry into the industry affected.

Pleads For Another Term.

The Payne-Aldrich bill, he said, though not a complete fulfillment of the pledges of the Republican platform, nevertheless contained substantial revisions. Some schedules of the tariff law, such as the woolen and cotton rates, ought to be modified, and if retained in power the Republican party would adjust them to present-day conditions. The banquet was a thoroughly informal affair. By special request of the governing board of the chamber dress suits were left at home and all the guests wore their business clothes. Mr. Taft conformed to the rule and was attired in a sack suit. The hall was a bit cold and the president put on his overcoat as a precautionary measure. It was probably the first time Mr. Taft ever ate dinner wearing an overcoat.

Before leaving the city President Taft received a telegram from J. B. Keatings, former United States district attorney at Indianapolis, saying that in the district conventions held in Indiana to elect new members of the state central committee the Taft forces were successful, electing all of the 13 new members.

Protest Against Postmasters.

Columbus, O., Feb. 1.—Before President Taft left Ohio, a written protest was mailed to Postmaster General Hitchcock by Thomas H. Clark, a local Republican attorney, who has been identified with the La Follette movement, against the political activity of Ohio postmasters who met here and talked with President Taft. They are understood to have had a meeting and to have decided to work for Taft. Clark in his letter quotes what purported to be a copy of a call sent out to postmasters by A. D. Alderman, postmaster of Marietta.

Result of Neglected Eczema—This is Preventable.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk. Failure to treat eczema of the face early, or the wrong kind of treatment almost certainly results in spreading and aggravating the complaint.

We have seen cases where the face and scalp had become one continuous sore, due to the violent itching and scratching.

Fortunately this need not happen now, for our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve, allays the itching so that the skin is no longer lacerated by the fingernails. And it sings into and saturates the skin so thoroughly, and is so wonderfully healing in its nature that it kills all germ life in the skin and promotes a speedy cure.

All who have a skin affection of any kind, eczema, barber's itch, ivy poisoning or any eruption, can try Saxon Salve at our risk and if the results are not wholly satisfactory we give back the money. Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists, Washington C. H., Ohio.

Try This Experiment On Your Family

Serve Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH instead of coffee for breakfast without calling anyone's attention to it.

Be sure that Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is made according to directions. Like coffee, you can spoil it. But Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is just as easy to prepare as coffee. See whether anybody notices the difference—or if your family thinks it is coffee, whether it is better than usual. Many who used to be coffee fiends say they now prefer Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH for its delightful flavor of the finest coffee.

Fitch's Grains of Health

The Coffee Substitute With the Coffee Taste

Here is another interesting experiment:

Put Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH into one cup, and the drinker's favorite brand of coffee into another.

Trim them exactly alike, and ask the drinker to tell which is which.

He may make a good guess, but it will be only a guess.

Smells Like Good Coffee Tastes Like Good Coffee

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH has been substituted for coffee in many families and confirmed drinkers have not known the change. Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH smells like good coffee—tastes like good coffee, but has not one of coffee's bad effects. Caffeine, the part of coffee which causes the headaches and nervousness, has been counteracted in Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is a simple combination of a special high-grade blend of coffee with herbs, roots and vegetables, which make it a positive health benefit.

Drink all the Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH you want. The more the better.

You can serve Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH to the children. It is good for them. No intelligent adviser would ever tell you to serve coffee to children.

Recommended by Physicians

You can serve Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH to the sick. We have testimonials from doctors who use Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH and recommend it.

But don't think we offer you Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH on its remedial merits alone. It is a substitute for coffee for all coffee drinkers. It has the aroma, it has the taste, it has the revivifying effect. It has all the attractions of the real thing, and it's healthified.

Ask Your Grocer

Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is sold by all leading grocers. The price is 30 cents the pound. It is ground, ready for use. It is just as easy to prepare as coffee, but only half as much of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH is required as coffee—a teaspoonful to a cup. Therefore it really costs only half as much as good coffee.

If your grocer cannot supply you, write us, mentioning his name, and we will send you a generous sample package of Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH (enough to serve a large family at breakfast) and a booklet telling you all about Fitch's GRAINS OF HEALTH. Enclose 6 cents in stamps for postage.

Horses Turn Heads to Cold Winds

By E. W. WOODS

I have noticed that horses when they are compelled to remain in the open cold turn their heads to the wind, and it seems to me that they stand in this way because they thus present the least heat surface of their body to the cold.

And also in this attitude they secure the greatest possible natural protection from their hairy coats, inasmuch as the wind forces the individual hairs more closely against the body.

If this looks reasonable to teamsters, they should turn their horses' heads to the cold wind every time possible.

RAILROAD WRECKS.

The tragic deaths of former president, J. T. Harahan, of the Illinois Central, and three other high railroad officials, at Kinmundy, Ill., again illustrates the small regard American railroads have for human lives, compared to other nations. The number of passengers killed in this country in 1908 was 301; in 1909 the number was 253, and in 1910 the number rose to 421. These figures are for passengers alone, and do not include trainmen and other employees, among whom the fatalities annually reach into the thousands.

Against the slaughter of American railroad passengers the British railroads, in 1910 killed only 23 passengers, a number greatly in excess of the average. In 1911 not a single passenger was killed in a wreck in England.

That these wholesale deaths are not necessary in this country is proven by the fact that one of the big English roads, for the last two years has used nothing but solid steel coaches, during which time not a single passenger has been killed on that road.

FEDERAL REPORT ON INDUSTRIAL LEAD POISONING

A bulletin containing three articles devoted to the subject of industrial lead poisoning has just been issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor. The first by Sir Thomas Oliver, is on industrial lead poisoning in Europe; the second, by Dr. Alice Hamilton, on the white-lead industry in the United States, and the third, by Mr. John B. Andrews, on death from industrial lead poisoning in New York, the two articles last mentioned being the first of a series of studies on this subject which the Department of Commerce and Labor propose to make.

The report of Oliver on lead poisoning in Great Britain, where compulsory notification of all cases is required, shows that in the past ten years there has been a reduction of 50 per cent. in the number of cases of lead poisoning, chiefly in the dusty trades which are carried on indoors, such as white-lead works, potteries, litho transfers and paint factories. Lead smelting and the painters' trades still seem to be very productive of lead poisoning in Great Britain, and, as in the United States, the great danger to the painter seems to be the process of sandpapering which forces him to breathe white-lead dust.

The report of the white-lead industry in the United States is admittedly incomplete owing to the lack of compulsory notification. Three hundred and eighty-eight cases were found to have occurred between Jan. 1, 1910, and May 1, 1911. As 1,600 men are employed in the trade, this would mean about one case in every four men employed, which is in appalling contrast to Oliver's figures. Owing to the shifting character of labor in this industry these figures are probably too low.

Andrews' analysis of sixty cases of lead poisoning in New York state during 1909 and 1910 shows that forty-five subjects handled paint, four were printers, three smelters, three white-lead workers two storage battery makers and one each employed in tinning, lead pipe making and rubber works. New Bureau Created By Senate

Senate Passes Borah Bill to Investigate Child Life.

Washington, Feb. 1. — The senate passed the bill introduced by Senator Borah of Idaho, providing for the establishment of a children's bureau in the department of commerce and labor. The vote was 54 to 20. The bill was changed in one particular. This was an amendment by Senator Culberson of Texas, providing that the agents of the bureau shall not enter any house "used exclusively as a residence" over the objection of the family. The vote on this amendment was 39 to 34.

Twelve Democrats voted against the passage of the bill, as follows: Bailey, Bryan, Chilton, Culberson, O'Gorman, Overman, Paynter, Smith of Maryland, Stone, Thornton, Tillman and Watson. Eight Republicans were recorded against the measure: Burnham, Clark of Wyoming, Gallinger, Heyburn, Nixon, Oliver, Wetmore and Works.

The bill provides, by the appointment by the president, subject to the senate's confirmation, of a chief who shall be in charge of the children's bureau, at a salary of $5,000 a year. The bureau "shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and shall especially investigate the question of infant mortality, the birth rate, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting the children in the several states and territories." The bill as originally proposed provided that the bureau might from time to time publish the results of its investigations. The senate adopted an amendment by Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, providing that details of the investigation shall not be published in these reports.

ed negotiations through Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Company for the acquisition of these properties. The negotiations were successful and the United States Steel corporation was formed.

It is contended in the answer that the United States Steel corporation has "cheaped the production of steel to the consumer, has extended the home market for steel products and has increased its foreign trade in said products by natural development from $8,000,000 in 1901 to $60,000,000 in 1911; that the foreign trade thus created by the steel corporation constitutes upwards of 90 per cent of the total export trade of the United States in said products; that it has not suppressed competition, restrained trade or effected a monopoly in any of the products of steel or attempted to do so; that the number of competitors of the steel corporation in the United States has largely increased since 1901 and that the output of said competitors has increased from approximately 40 per cent in 1901 to upwards of 50 per cent in 1911."

Lives of Successful Men Remind Us of Credit Due to Wife—Little Said of the Wife Who Is a Hindrance.

In these piping times of prosperity we see many articles published telling how the writer achieved success in this Oregon country, and principally on small pieces of land. Such stories are highly inspiring, particularly to the young men and young women who are just starting out for themselves.

If one will take the trouble to tabulate and analyze these stories it will be discovered that in nine cases out of ten a good woman was the actual cornerstone upon which the success was founded and worked out. The same has been true since the world began, we suppose. It certainly has been the rule that the good helpmeet has done more for man than any other one cause—than any other score of causes—since our forefathers landed on the bleak New England shore. There are, perhaps, fewer exceptions to the rule now than ever, particularly among those who have risen from poverty to affluence on the land.

We must give the wives of nearly all successful men great credit. In many cases they have suffered more hardship than their husbands, fathers, or brothers have labored harder, have worked for longer hours. No credit is too great for them.

But how often is the other side of the story alluded to? Where can we find the stories of the wives who were not helpmeets, but rather hindrances and stumbling blocks to their husbands? How about the wives who almost from the day of marriage were begging for fineries, luxuries and unnecessary articles beyond their means? Do we read of them?

This is not a pleasant subject to touch upon; but many of us can point to cases where the extravagance of the wife has kept the husband in poverty, or at least keeping him in poverty, or at least grinding his nose to the wheel, grinding his life out inch by inch. Would it not be well to take up this phase of life and now and then speak of the failures? Why not call attention to the woman who has begged the money from her young husband for the purchase of a new dress which she does not need, or a new hat, which all know to be above her means, when the same money put into a cow or two would mean success.

In telling about the cheery and encouraging words of the true helpmeet why not give a little thought to the poor husband who has had the very soul and spirit nagged out of him by a woman who did not know what she wanted, but was bound to have, if nagging could get them, many of the fineries of her richer neighbors had?

Few such stories are published, for the reason that the husbands are failures, or so considered, and no man likes to exploit himself as a failure. But would it not be well for some of the unfortunate ones to tell their stories for the benefit of the young wives who, with their husbands, are just starting out on the road of married life? All praise to the good women, the good wives, the self-sacrificing and noble mothers; but let us now and then have a word for the unfortunate husbands of the other sort of women.—Portland Oregonian.

More Light.

Fresh air enthusiasts are familiar enough to most of us, but we hear less of enthusiasm for light. Darkened parlors, darkened bedrooms, darkened sickrooms are too common. Sir B. W. Richardson, the eminent London scientist and physician, declared that when the professors of healing enter a sick-room their first words in most cases ought to be Goethe's dying exclamation: "More light! More light!" The light of the sun is God's own microbe killer, germicide, disinfectant, prophylactic, sickness healer. There is no physician, no chemical antidote, no compounded prescription to be compared with sunlight. Without it nature could not perform her functions. Man, beast, bird, insect would fall victims to the deadly gases that would prevail. The horrid mists and deadly gases are dispersed and decomposed by the action of light. Let it in, everywhere! Let the light in more and more abundantly. Faded carpets are not as pitiful as faded cheeks. Spoiled cushions are trivial compared with spoiled health. Darkened rooms are too suggestive of darkened lives.—The Christian Herald.

Ingenious Watch.

Among the ingenious devices of the physician may be mentioned a watch, constructed on the "stop" principle, whereby the number of pulse beats per minute may be indicated. A push-button is pressed at the beginning of the count and again at the twentieth pulsation, when the number of beats per minute is shown on a dial without the necessity for calculation. Still another push on the button brings the counter back to the starting point. In the ordinary method of taking the pulse the observer is obliged to do two things at the same time—count the beats and keep his eye on the second hand of his watch. With the pulse watch only one operation is necessary, the counting of the pulsation up to 20, when the push-button is pressed.

Bureau Created By Senate

Senate Passes Borah Bill to Investigate Child Life.

Washington, Feb. 1. — The senate passed the bill introduced by Senator Borah of Idaho, providing for the establishment of a children's bureau in the department of commerce and labor. The vote was 54 to 20. The bill was changed in one particular. This was an amendment by Senator Culberson of Texas, providing that the agents of the bureau shall not enter any house "used exclusively as a residence" over the objection of the family. The vote on this amendment was 39 to 34.

Twelve Democrats voted against the passage of the bill, as follows: Bailey, Bryan, Chilton, Culberson, O'Gorman, Overman, Paynter, Smith of Maryland, Stone, Thornton, Tillman and Watson. Eight Republicans were recorded against the measure: Burnham, Clark of Wyoming, Gallinger, Heyburn, Nixon, Oliver, Wetmore and Works.

The bill provides, by the appointment by the president, subject to the senate's confirmation, of a chief who shall be in charge of the children's bureau, at a salary of $5,000 a year. The bureau "shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and shall especially investigate the question of infant mortality, the birth rate, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting the children in the several states and territories." The bill as originally proposed provided that the bureau might from time to time publish the results of its investigations. The senate adopted an amendment by Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, providing that details of the investigation shall not be published in these reports.

ed negotiations through Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Company for the acquisition of these properties. The negotiations were successful and the United States Steel corporation was formed.

It is contended in the answer that the United States Steel corporation has "cheaped the production of steel to the consumer, has extended the home market for steel products and has increased its foreign trade in said products by natural development from $8,000,000 in 1901 to $60,000,000 in 1911; that the foreign trade thus created by the steel corporation constitutes upwards of 90 per cent of the total export trade of the United States in said products; that it has not suppressed competition, restrained trade or effected a monopoly in any of the products of steel or attempted to do so; that the number of competitors of the steel corporation in the United States has largely increased since 1901 and that the output of said competitors has increased from approximately 40 per cent in 1901 to upwards of 50 per cent in 1911."

Mrs. Frances Burkhardt swallowed carbolic acid before a neighbor could knock the glass out of her hand. She will recover. Richard Olesburn, who said he walked to Cincinnati from St. Louis, appeared in the mayor's office and said he had not eaten for three days. "You've got to get me a job or the city will have to bury me," he said. "I'm hungry and am going to commit suicide." He looked honest and the mayor's secretary hurried out and got him a job.

BOTH BOATS WERE HELPLESS

Captain, for Variety's Sake, Tells Story of Men Who Were Not Rescued at Sea.

"I suppose you've heard plenty of stories about men being rescued at sea," remarked the captain of a steamer on a line plying out of New York, "and for that reason I'm going to tell you a story, for variety's sake, about some men not being rescued at sea. It was one of the worst experiences I ever had since I've been a sailor."

"It was in the middle of a terrible hurricane, and the boat I was on was just barely manageable. All we could do was to keep steering way on her and trust to weather the storm."

"Well, at the very worst of it, when the wind was howling like mad and the waves were almost burying us, we heard a yell from out somewhere on the sea. The next moment we caught sight of a sailing vessel not more than a few hundred yards away, evidently in distress."

"Soon we were so close to her that we could see she had lost one of her masts and was absolutely at the mercy of the storm. We could plainly see her sailors clinging to the rigging or hanging on to whatever hadn't been washed off her decks. What was worse, we could plainly hear them shouting to us for help."

"But—there was nothing whatever we could do. You are not a sailor and perhaps you can't understand what I'm telling you, when I say that we simply had to stand there on our boat, listening to those men in their agony, yet we couldn't so much as throw them a rope."

"Why? Because our boat was barely manageable itself, as I told you. We were fighting the storm just as hard as we could. If we had stopped we would have lost steering way and run the risk of being swamped. Also we stood an excellent chance of being rammed against that disabled boat and sending ourselves and it to the bottom. As to throwing them a rope—first, we couldn't throw it far enough for them to reach it, and second, there was the probability of the rope's getting tangled in our propeller and spoiling our chances of escape."

"There was nothing—nothing whatever—for us to do. And, I tell you, it was a terrible thing to scoot past those poor devils hanging on to that hulk and hear their cries growing fainter and fainter in the distance. I've never forgotten the sound of them."

Would Be Interesting Reading.

"We may wonder if the world will ever be allowed to see the private correspondence amassed by the late Queen Victoria," says a writer. "It is stored away in a strong room built into the walls of Buckingham palace and the queen shared her confidence with no one. So long as she was physically able to do so she opened and closed the safe herself and arranged its contents. When she was too feeble to do this she employed an old and trusted secretary, but even he had to work under the royal eye. He was never allowed to keep the keys nor to read the letters that he handled. Queen Victoria was always a voluminous letter writer, and she was in constant communication with most of the royalties in Europe. Every domestic secret and privacy of royalty during half a century is said to be represented by the contents of this wonderful safe, and it is easy to believe that the modern historian would find his hands full if he were permitted to browse among these letters. But probably he will have to wait a few hundred years, and then his popular audience will be a long time to wait. It is one of the ironies of life that we can never have things when we want them."

The Supreme Test.

"What makes you think that you really love me?" she said.

He thought for a moment before he replied, and then he said:

"I am willing to button up your back all the rest of your life."

"That is something, but is it all?"

"I am willing to let our house be run by strangers, and that you should ever remain in entire ignorance of its management."

"Rather good. Anything else?"

"I am willing that we should have no children, so that you will be able to go to Europe whenever you want to entertain your friends, and not be tied down."

"Good! And is that all?"

"Is this not enough?"

And she doubtfully replied:

"I suppose it ought to be, but I was in hopes that you would say you were willing to have me wear anything I pleased all the rest of my life, no matter how really ridiculous it was."—Lip

SHOUTS HIS WIFE AND WRITES STORY

New Jersey Man Fires on Spouse and Then "Covers" Tragedy for Newspapers.

New York.—Andrew McConell, founder of the cult of human electricity as a universal cure, who shot his wife, Marion D. McConell, in her room at Ocean Grove, N. J., the other day, was arrested as he was writing a story of the shooting in the office of a local newspaper.

Because of the rambling story he had written of the shooting and what prompted him to attempt the life of his wife, from whom he had apparently been divorced, it is said that McConell is demented.

"I was forced to shoot the woman who was my wife," read the piece of copy he had in the typewriter when arrested. "Absolute divorce was obtained last spring. Not one word was said about the divorce during the night I shot her. She has tried to vilify an innocent woman."

He Shot His Wife.

When the prisoner was having his pedigree taken in the station house he said:

"I shot my wife because she was always making me believe I was insane. She vilifies me to different people and has run my character down. I don't want to go back to New Jersey, for they will put me back as they did before."

"How did you come to shoot your wife?" he was asked.

"Oh, I hired an automobile at Avon, went to a house, saw my wife sitting on a chair and shot her," he nonchalantly answered.

According to Dr. W. C. Van Valen of this city, McConell is a dangerous paranoiac.

The woman may recover. The bullet struck her at the base of the brain, but emerged after circling under the skin for two inches.

He was too late, however, for the men, William H. Dougherty and his son-in-law, William J. Cullinan, residents of Brooklyn, had been dismissed by the magistrate a few minutes before.

A simple charge of intoxication had been preferred against them in the absence of other complaint. But the story of their actions as told by the minister made Magistrate Hyman change his opinion and he ordered their rearrest.

His Luncheon.

Woodbury Pulsifer, at the Maine society's reunion in New York, praised the sturdy perseverance of Maine's sons.

"Perseverance, pluck, self-denial," said Mr. Pulsifer, "those are the qualities that bring Maine boys success."

"It was a Maine boy in Paris—he was a successful sculptor today—who was sought out in his garret in the Rue Boissandue by a rich friend who wished to invite him to a New Year's luncheon."

"The rich friend, who hadn't yet decided on the hour for the luncheon, said:

"I don't know whether to set it for 12 o'clock or 1. By the way, old chap, when do you lunch as a rule?"

"Thursdays," said the Maine boy.

Indiana Town
Has Big Fire

Special to Herald.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—Fire at Sheridan near here destroyed business block today. Loss placed at $100,000.

Prof. Brander Matthews, at a dinner in New York, said of literary criticism:

"A good deal of it, too, is biased. A good deal of it is like Mr. Walton's."

"Mr. Walton's daughter, a college girl, wrote, at the age of 18, a novel which her father brought out for her at his own expense."

"During the Christmas holidays Mr. Walton gave a party in his daughter's honor, and at this party the young girl read from an improvised platform chapters out of her book."

"Her fond old father was carried away by the reading. So tremendously indeed did his admiration for his daughter's talent enkindle him that, as the girl read on, the old man could be heard muttering over and over:

"Howells be hanged! Howells be hanged!"

Why Bayona Played Badly.

Juan Antonio Bayona played the trombone badly the other night at the performance in a Madrid theater. The soprano was singing and Bayona's discordant notes disturbed her and the audience as well. Disturbed most of all was the conductor of the orchestra. He demanded an explanation and got it.

As Bayona was entering the theater that evening his cigar fell from his holder. In stooping to pick up the cigar his eye fell on a newspaper clipping. He picked that up also, and this is what he read:

A rich Spanish merchant has just died in California, leaving a fortune of $200,000,000. In his will he appoints his brother, Juan Antonio Bayona, sole executor. Inquiries made at the consulate only prove that Juan Antonio Bayona lived in Valencia until 1882 and married in Madrid in 1884, where he died in 1901."

Juan A. Bayona, the trombonist, is the son of Juan A. Bayona, who answered the description in the clipping. Hence the agitation that produced the trouble with the trombone.

Educational Progress.

In the decade 1900-1910 greater progress was made in educational conditions in the United States than in any previous 10 years in the country's history. The report of the Federal bureau of education shows that the annual expenditures for public schools increased from $229,000,000 to $425,000,000, appropriations for normal schools from $2,759,000 to $6,620,000, and the value of school property from $530,000,000 to over $1,000,000,000. Public high schools increased from 6,000 to 10,213, their teachers from about 20,000 to over 41,000, and enrolled high school pupils from 520,000 to 900,000.

The average length of the common school term increased from 144 to 156 days, and the average attendance of pupils from 99 to 114 days.

An advance from $166,175,000 to $273,425,000 was made in the productive fund of universities, colleges and technical schools, and from $28,500,000 to $77,800,000 in their annual income outside of endowments.

BOTH BOATS WERE HELD

Captain, for Variety's Sake, Tells Story of Men Who Were Not Rescued at Sea.

"I suppose you've heard plenty of stories about men being rescued at sea," remarked the captain of a steamer on a line plying out of New York, "and for that reason I'm going to tell you a story, for variety's sake, about some men not being rescued at sea. It was one of the worst experiences I ever had since I've been a sailor."

"It was in the middle of a terrible hurricane, and the boat I was on was just barely manageable. All we could do was to keep steering way on her and trust to weather the storm."

"Well, at the very worst of it, when the wind was howling like mad and the waves were almost burying us, we heard a yell from out somewhere on the sea. The next moment we caught sight of a sailing vessel not more than a few hundred yards away, evidently in distress."

"Soon we were so close to her that we could see she had lost one of her masts and was absolutely at the mercy of the storm. We could plainly see her sailors clinging to the rigging or hanging on to whatever hadn't been washed off her decks. What was worse, we could plainly hear them shouting to us for help."

"But—there was nothing whatever we could do. You are not a sailor, and perhaps you can't understand what I'm telling you, when I say that we simply had to stand there on our boat, listening to those men in their agony, yet we couldn't so much as throw them a rope."

"Why? Because our boat was barely manageable itself, as I told you. We were fighting the storm just as hard as we could. If we had stopped we would have lost steering way and run the risk of being swamped. Also we stood an excellent chance of being rammed against that disabled boat and sending ourselves and it to the bottom. As to throwing them a rope—first, we couldn't throw it far enough for them to reach it, and second, there was the probability of the rope's getting tangled in our propeller and spoiling our chances of escape."

"There was nothing—nothing whatever—for us to do. And, I tell you, it was a terrible thing to scoot past those poor devils hanging on to that bulk and hear their cries growing fainter and fainter in the distance. I've never forgotten the sound of them."

Would Be Interesting Reading.

"We may wonder if the world will ever be allowed to see the private correspondence amassed by the late Queen Victoria," says a writer. "It is stored away in a strong room built into the walls of Buckingham palace and the queen shared her confidence with no one. So long as she was physically able to do so she opened and closed the safe herself and arranged its contents. When she was too feeble to do this she employed an old and trusted secretary, but even he had to work under the royal eye. He was never allowed to keep the keys nor to read the letters that he handled. Queen Victoria was always a voluminous letter writer, and she was in constant communication with most of the royalties in Europe. Every domestic secret and privacy of royalty during half a century is said to be represented by the contents of this wonderful safe, and it is easy to believe that the modern historian would find his hands full if he were permitted to browse among these letters. But probably he will have to wait a few hundred years, and then his popular audience will be a long one. It is one of the ironies of life that we can never have things when we want them."

The Supreme Test.

"What makes you think that you really love me?" she said.

He thought for a moment before he replied, and then he said:

"I am willing to button you up your back all the rest of your life."

"That is something, but is it all?"

"I am willing to let our house be run by strangers, and that you should ever remain in entire ignorance of its management."

"Rather good. Anything else?"

"I am willing that we should have no children, so that you will be able to go to Europe whenever you want to entertain your friends, and not be tied down."

"Good! And is that all?"

"Is this not enough?"

And she doubtfully replied:

"I suppose it ought to be, but I was in hopes that you would say you were willing to have me wear anything I pleased all the rest of my life, no matter how really ridiculous it was."—Lippincott's Magazine.

New Jersey Man Fires on Spouse and Then "Covers" Tragedy for Newspapers.

New York.—Andrew McConnell, founder of the cult of human electricity as a universal cure, who shot his wife, Marion D. McConnell, in her room at Ocean Grove, N. J., the other day, was arrested as he was writing a story of the shooting in the office of a local newspaper.

Because of the rambling story he had written of the shooting and what prompted him to attempt the life of his wife, from whom he had apparently been divorced, it is said that McConnell is demented.

"I was forced to shoot the woman who was my wife," read the piece of copy he had in the typewriter when arrested. "Absolute divorce was obtained last spring. Not one word was said about the divorce during the night I shot her. She has tried to vilify an innocent woman."

When the prisoner was having his pedigree taken in the station house he said:

"I shot my wife because she was always making me believe I was insane. She vilifies me to different people and has run my character down. I don't want to go back to New Jersey, for they will put me back as they did before."

"How did you come to shoot your wife?" he was asked.

"Oh, I hired an automobile at Avon, went to a house, saw my wife sitting on a chair and shot her," he nonchalantly answered.

According to Dr. W. C. Van Valen of this city, McConnell is a dangerous paranoiac.

The woman may recover. The bullet struck her at the base of the brain, but emerged after circling under the skin for two inches.

HE DIDN'T MAKE THE CALL

The Office Boy Left "Higgins" No Alternative but to "Beat It," and He Did.

During the recent visit to New York of Robert S. Higgins, the English novelist, he wished to call upon the managing editor of a Park Row paper. Just at that time any paper one picked up had an interview with Higgins. Besides, the editor and he were friends. So that Higgins—not having experienced the Park Row office boy—thought he would have no difficulty in invading the sanctum. "Take—haw—my card to the managing editor," said he to the office boy.

That grimy functionary holds his job by feeling to it that not one card in ten presented to him ever gets anywhere. He casts a coldly suspicious eye upon the novelist. The latter was dolled up in his Piccadilly clothes, carried a cane, wore spats, and shot a monochrome from his right eye in astonishment at the urchin's impertinence. "Whadda yuh wanta see him fur?" asked the boy.

Mr. Higgins tried to wither the boy. Only unwitherable boys last on Park Row. He ordered the boy to go in with that card. The boy said in New Yorkese that there would be nothing doin' until he found out why Higgins wanted to see the editor. Mr. Higgins had an inspiration. "I am an English journalist," said he. "Give my card and tell him that I wish to write a series of articles on New York for his paper."

The boy disappeared behind a screen. Mr. Higgins smiled happily at the thought of the merry laughter with which his friend, the editor, would receive the statement. Pretty soon Mr. Higgins heard the voice of the office boy. "Guy out here named Higgins," said the boy, "says he wants a job."

The voice of an unseen and hard worked man replied that no jobs were open to any Higgins. The boy handed a thumb smudged card back to Mr. Higgins. "Nothin' doin'," said he, indifferently, and buried himself in his late edition.

"But—" began Mr. Higgins, indignantly.

"G'wan, now," said the boy, brusquely. "Beat it, Higgins."

And so Mr. Higgins did.

'Twas Ever Thus.

"Now, by me halldome!" stormed Sir Michael De Byte, pausing in the donning of his clothes. "'Twas a neglectful and slatternly housewife I got when I wed thee!"

"What irketh thee, Mike dear?" asked his trembling spouse.

"What irketh, quotha! There be three rivets out of my clean shirt of mail!"

And she was fain to weep softly as he smote her with his mace.

HIS INNING.

The waitress at the Littlehat Inn smoothed her apron and turned, giggling, to her assistant. "There's a regular old countryman just come in," she whispered. "He's ordered a chowder first, the way they always do. When it comes to dessert I'm going to have some fun. You listen."

The old countryman was taking his last spoonful of chowder from his tilted plate when he became aware that the waitress was hovering near him. He looked up, and she spoke in a clear, carrying tone.

"We've got four kinds of pie," she said. "Which will you have?"

The shrewd old eyes twinkled up into the pretty, impertinent face.

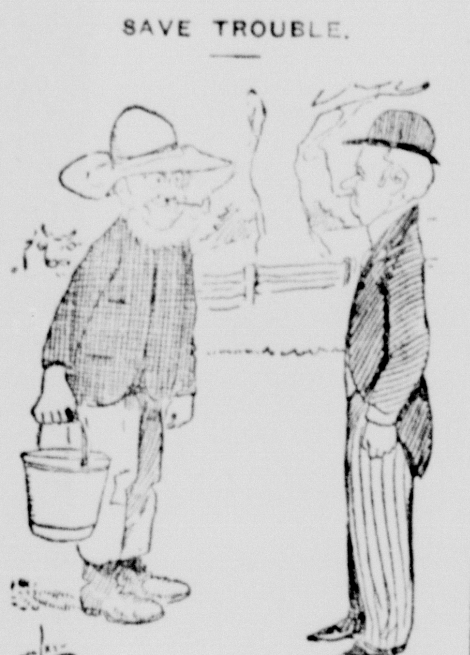

"I'll have a piece of the last," said the old countryman, gravely.—Youth's Companion.

No Place for It in the Theater.

"My son has written a play that has nothing to do with the matrimonial triangle, and which does not attempt to solve any sociological problem."

"What does he intend to do with it?"

"I don't know yet, but I've advised him to try to get some Sunday school to give it during the Christmas season."

Farmer Corn Tassel—Our cow beats her usual yield of milk every day.

The City Visitor—When your chickens get to beating their own eggs you'll be in luck.

That Woman.

If she wants the last word, In spite of grim fate, Though she may be a bird, She's the deuce of a mate.

She Controls It.

"I don't believe in equal suffrage. I am opposed to a woman's controlling a vote."

"That's right. By the way, why weren't you at the polls the other day? Didn't you want to support the party?"

"Yes, but my wife wouldn't let me."

Three Classes.

Trust Magnate—Is the morning mail in?

Secretary—Yes.

T. M.—Very well. Credit up the checks, throw the appeals for help in the waste basket, and turn the indictments over to our lawyers to be quashed.—Puck.

A Soft Answer.

"What are doing there?" asked the man of the house, sitting up in bed.

"My dear sir," replied the gentlemanly burglar who was rummaging the bureau, "I am endeavoring to find the lost plect of which the poet has so feelingly written."

Fuller Keyne—The easiest way to make an enemy of a person is to lend him ten dollars.

I. M. P. Conius—I'd very much like to class you among my enemies.

No Wonder.

He swears his heart is in his work. The truth of which we do infer. He's fired his withered lady clerk And hired a "cute" stenographer.

Inconvenience of Wealth.

The Traveler—"I'm sorry, my boy, but I seem to have left my purse in my other coat."

The Bootblack (sympathically)—"Dat's whut comes f'm havin' two coats."

Why They Scout.

Mrs. Howard—And so two of your sons are Boy Scouts? Where do they do their reconnoitering?

Mrs. Howard—In our refrigerator.—Life.

Ancient Church in Bulgaria

This is not a photograph of a barn or stable, as might be supposed, but of a typical old Bulgarian church. It is attached to an ancient monastery situated on the slopes of Mount Vitosha, only a few miles from Sofia. The interior of the church is even more crude and primitive than the exterior. The floor is of cobble and flagstones laid in a very irregular manner. The walls are decorated with frescoes and canvas paintings.
